

WE NOMINATE

Jean Labatut, one of the leading architects and architectural teachers of the mid-20th century, who has dedicated his career to teaching and proving by his own works that "it is false to say that our machine age has diminished or suppressed elements essential to beauty." Indicative of Labatut's capacity for creating excitement in architectural circles has been the exhibition (closing this week) in McCormick Hall of a Church Prototype, "The Church of the Four Evangelists," by Labatut and a former Princetonian, painter Andre Girard.

The Labatut-Girard scale model of a pentagonal church, with an interior parabolic wall and with walls of painted glass from floor to a 26-foot high ceiling, is described by philosopher Jacques Maritain as a "great architectural and decorative conception" and is linked with Labatut's researches in architectural composition and details, landscape architecture and community planning. Adaptable to a community of any size, the prototype was previously exhibited in New York and Chicago and won the highest of praise for effectively blending the modern and the traditional in sacred art.

A 53-year old native of France and a Princetonian since 1928, when he was called here to supervise advanced studies in the University's School of Architecture, Labatut has literally earned enough awards to fill nearly a half-column in WHO'S WHO Labatut, a former director of the American School of Fine Arts. Fontainebleau, France, and one of the preators of two of Princeton's distinctive research agencies, the Bureau of Urban Research and the Architectural Laboratory, early this past winter was honored as a Knight of the French Legion of Honor, shortly before it became known that next spring-on leave from the University-he would serve as Architect in Residence at the American Academy in Rome.

During World War II Labatut, a member of the French Army's Engineering Corps in 1918-19 and a naturalized American for the past 13 years, even found ways of using Palmer Stadium for war nurposes. Engaged in camouflage research, he found that by gazing down from the concrete horseshoe's top parapet camouflage technicians could see scale models of airfields and factories in the same way aerial photographers and bombardiers would view the "real thing" from thousands of feet "un." Labatut's post-war activities have included the chairmanship of the Township Planning Board, a post he has held since the Board was founded in 1948

For blazing new trails in the field of architecture; for emphasizing that the atomic present demands of the architect a greater development of his creative power, and a greater sensibility; for constantly seeking to delve ever deeper into the problems of architectural composition; he is our nominee for Vitat Protection. While the international situation was no worse, the fact remained that it has for the past few years been "exceedingly serious." It was also a fact that Russia has the atomic homb. Added to this is the known inability of radar to detect enemy planes approaching the U. S. at low-flying levels.

All things considered—and the matter had received serious attention since before the outbreak of war in Korea—the Air Defense Command had set this Saturday as the first day for operation of the Ground Observer Corps on a 24-hour basis. Preliminary steps toward this objective (the training of key personnel and the organization of filter centers) have been accomplished. Now, those charged with defense of the nation felt, activation of the Ground Observer Corps was the next vital step in preparedness.

In New Jersey and 26 other states which form a carefully-planned defense pattern, volunteers were being called. Men and women from 16 to 60 were needed to fit into two-hour shifts, to spot all aircraft and telephone identifying characteristics from the "field office" at the edge of the Springdale Golf Course.

Like many another community. Princeton was encountering extreme difficulty in organizing its quota of volunteers. At mid-week, less than a third of the 200 regulars and alternates needed to man the post in pairs had registered, with weekend and night shifts particularly unpopuler.

On paper, the blank hours were filled in with the names of a few Princetonians who had promised to direct the project, and who promised themselves that as of Saturday, no shift would go untilled, But without additional help, the task seemed hopeless—one man was scheduled for 22 consecutive hours to bridge the biggest gap!

hours to bridge the biggest gap!

A decade ago, the U. S. absorbed a lesson in unpreparedness that cost it hundreds of thousands of lives and was not immeasurably distant from choking off its own existence. If it persisted in going unprepared again—and the only guarantee that it would not was the people themselves—its own life might well be the forfeit.

Those who wish to help may do so by telephoning Hayward Greenland (871-W) or writing him through P. O. Box 16.

Dedication Plans, Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett will be the principal speaker Saturday when Princeton University's Forrestal Research Center is dedicated. The program will start at 2 on the $500-acre tract across Lake Carnegie Continued on Page 2

Continued from Page 1 and will be open to the public, with the center open for inspection before and after the ceremonies.

Governor Driscoll and President Dodds will be others participating in the occasion, which will attract leading figures in husiness, industry, government, education and scifrom all parts of the nation. The program has been arranged just a year after work began in the 17 major buildings that are being developed as modern research

Tour of Homes. The busy weekend (for details of the athletic program starting at 8:45 a.m. and running to 4:40 p.m., see the sports section, pages 6 and 7) will also be marked by an "Open House" tour of ten attractive and unusual Princeton homes, Proceeds will benefit the scholarship funds of Mt. Holyoke and Radeliffe Col-leges; tickets at $2 are on sale at Hinkson's and the University

Examples of architecture and design from coloniat to the ultramodern will be reflected by the houses, while antiques, paintings and gardens will also be on display. Those whose homes will be open are former Governor and Mrs. Walter Edge, Morven, Stockton Street; Dean and Mrs. J. Douglas Brown, The Dean's House; William H. Jackson, Elmwood, Princeton-Trenton Pike; Denn and Mrs. Luther P. Eisenhart, Alexander Street; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Cook, Heatheste Farm, Kingston.

Also, Professor and Mrs. Sher-ley Morgan, Hodge Road; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Sorg, Springdale Road; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Lauck, Jr., Princeton-Lawrenceville Road: Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Haines, Elm Itoad; Professor and Mrs. Harold Cherniss, Battle Road,

Circus Coming. Sponsored by the Lions Club, Hunt's Circus will give two performances Wednesday, stag ing a matinee at 3:30 and an evening show at 8 on the Witherspoon Street grounds opposite the Valley Road School.

A variety of animal acts will include a number of trained ele-phants, among them "Rabne," billed as the world's smallest and presented by "Marsh Hunt," the world's youngest elephant trainer. The eight-year old girl has appeared in motion pictures and on several coast-to-coast television programs.

Sidewalk Displays Limited. The Borough Conneil made this news at its May meeting Tuesday:

Passed a resolution prohibiting the display of merchandise on the sidewalk in the business district if it is more than three feet from the store front. Whatever is placed outside must leave 11 feet of sidewalk for pedestrian use on Nassau Street and eight feet on Witherspoon.

Passed an ordinance to install 68 meters in the Spring Street park-

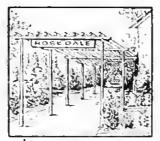

Passed an ordinance to improve Harold Avenue at a cost of $21,000, of which the property owners affected will pay 40 per cent through increased assessments.

Introduced a measure to call the street running from Moore to Snowden Lane "Hamilton Avenue" for the entire distance, thus eliminating Hamilton Avenue Extension and Harold Avenue. That gets a public hearing on June 10.

Awarded, Fourteen Trophies traditional trophies awarded by Company L of the New Jersey National Guard's II-lth Infantry Regiment were given to members at ceremonies held Monday in the River Road armory, Presentation for outstanding achievement during the past year was made by Lieutenant Stanley L. Donald, company commander.

The Benham Trophy, for "highest degree of general excellence, efficiency and bearing in perform-ance of duty," went to William Morris. Runners up were Anthony Carnevale and Horace Scott. John Clausen, Michael Carnevale and Rudolph Schuler were honored as outstanding new members of Company L.

Trophies for superior ability in rifle marksmanship went to Sergeant Michael Lisi, Nicholas Bartolino, Salvatore Didonato, James Wheeler, Anthony Krystaponis, Robert Moore and Robert Bell. These men were largely responsible for the company's winning the Tigers to second place in the tourrey behind Virginia in a field of 14. In match play, however, Ragland bowed out in the semi-finals.

Princeton High School's track team again completely dominated the Mercer County championships in Trenton Tuesday, winning the title for the fifth year in a row, Coach Irwin Weiss' Little Tigers romped off with a dozen first places and assorted runner-up positions for a total of 95 points. Trenton High was far behind with 26, while Trenton Catholic, Hamilton and Hightstown trailed.

Tom Perks, voted the outstanding athlete of the occasion, broke three meet records in winning the shot, javelin and discus. Buster Thomas took the broad jump and 220-yard dash, while Jim Varner also racked up a double when he won both hurdles. Last weekend, the Blue and White took more honors in the Long Branch Relays as its all-conquering march continues,

Displays of flags and exhibitions in store windows of military equipment will mark Armed Forces Day here Saturday. Cooperating stores are Clayton's, the Princeton Decorating Shop, the Wrlght Store and the Better Mousetrap. C. Kenneth Wallace heads the committee on arrangements; other members are the Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, James M. Kgels, Miss Kay Owles, Mrs. Geoffrey Sage and Dan D. Coyle.

Paintings by Dudley Morris, art instructor at the Lawrenceville School, will be on display at Group Arts. 14 Spring Street, through May 30. His work has been exhibited in museums in many principal eities, and may be seen here from 10-5 five days a week; until 2 on Saturday and weekends by appointment.

Students from the Kelsall Vocal Studio, assisted by the Blah Academy Male Chorus and Elva Kelsall, will give a recital Sunday evening at 8:30 at the Penns Neck Community Club. Among those to be heard will be Jean Viglione, who will appear in a Town Hall recital in New York next month, and Robert Dixon, tenor who sang in the Y.W.C.A. festival. There is no admission charge.

It was announced at Township Hall Monday that Theodore Potts has failed to appeal the Superior Court ruling that the ordinance prohibiting two-family homes near the Clearview section is legal. The measure was chailenged by Mr. Potts, but Judge Smalley upheld it and the deadline for a second appeal has now passed.

Nassau Lodge No. 106, LO.O.F., will meet Monday to watch a demonstration of plastics by Henry Ayars, a lodge member, and Mrs. Ayars. Wives of members are invited to attend.

IT'S NEW TO US

—Continued from Page S and it has just the sweetest little Peter Pan collar and you may feel like 16 in it, but you aren't kidding onybody. Or you buy women's half-sizes and find yourself looking like granny, dressed up for a sewing

Now, at Mary Gill's, 230 Nassau, you can buy Leslie Fay dresses for your five-foot frame, it's high time, too, hecause this size (they say) is the height of the average American woman (whoever she may be).

These dresses fit us exactly, even to length, which is an event in our shopping experience. They are also proportioned for shoulders, waist-line and hips

We saw a rack-full of Leslie Fay dress-ups, made in silk, surah and shanglung. There are prints, small so they don't blow over the pint-size ligure, but not so small they melt into the landscape. We liked especially a navy blue silk suit perfect for a small, trim five-footer.

Prices on these range upward from $19.95. There will be cottons in the same line f.om $12.95. although these hadn't come in yel when we were browsing.

The trickiest strapless-stole combination is in Mary Gill's collection (you can be any size to wear this one.) It's washable everglaze in chartreuse with lemony leaves printed on it. The tricky part comes with the stole. It's attached to the bones of the strapless bodice, and what you think is the other end of the stole is actually a panel hanging over the left hip. IN CONCERT SATURDAY

Patricia Travers, violinist, will play in McCarter Saturday night.

News of the Theatres

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

Patricia Travers, still in her early 20's but now on her 15th nationwide tour as a concert violinist, will be heard in the McCarter Saturday night at 8:30. With Claude Chiasson as her accompanist, she will play the famous "Devil's Trill" Sonata by Tartini; Brahms' Sonata in D minor; Roger Sessions Duo for Violin and Piano and Charles Ives' Sonata No. 2.

Miss Travers, who has already won wide acclaim here and abroad, traces her interest in music to the first toy violin she had as a baby. She began taking lessons before she was four, made her debut at the age of 6 and her first professional appearance at 9, as soloist with the Detroit Symphony on a national radio network.

Her concert, last in University to Series I this season, is an event not to be overlooked. Tickets at the University Store and Saturday, at the theatre, day, at the theatre, "" on ""

Full details and information on ticket subscriptions for Series I and II next season were released this week by Mrs, MarKenty Bryan for the University Concerts Committee, See page 16 for full details.

MURRAY THEATRE

The Searching Sun, John O'Hara's new play which has been receiving a trial run here prior to heading for Broadway, will conclude its stand in Murray Theatre with performances Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30. While considerable disagreement exists over its merits, the production provides an interesting evening and is currently serving as an excellent conversation piece. The play is worth seeing, regardless of its final appeal,

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Marrying Kind (Thurs,-Sat.) details the ups and downs of seven years of wedlock for Judy Holiday and newcomer Aldo Ray, Much of it resorts to flashback to show why they're on the verge of divorce, blending comedy and drama but tarely rising above the run of ordinary entertainment.

The Wild North (Sun.-Tues.) pits Wendell Corey as a member of the Canadian Mounted Police against Stewart Granger, who is involved in the death of a fellow trapper, Action is frequently slow, although

The split in sentiment among the various population groups in the state offers some interesting and significant findings. For instance, among voters under 15 years of age, sentiment for Smith and Alexander is exactly the same whereas ander is exactly the same; whereas among those 45 years af age or older, majority sentiment favors Smith.

It must be emphasized that to-day's ligures are a reflection of sentiment nearly six months in advance of elections and cannot in any sense he construed as a forecast of what will happen next November. As the campinging swings into high gear, voters will have a hetter opportunity to learn more about the candidates, their records and their platforms.

G.O.P. Holds Margin. Results of a survey of publicial sentiment in the state just completed by New Jersey Poll staff reporters show that Republician strength is just about what is was on Election Day, November 2, 1916. G.O.P. captured nice Congressional sents, the same unabor that it took in 1948. In both 1948 and 1950, the Democrats won live sents.

-Continued from Page 13 Jagger and the late Robert Walker, the film falls short of the mark. Instead of ranking as a powerful drama, it is presented as pure melodrama that tends to become maudhn in depicting a family tragedy.

ALEXANDER HALL

The Princeton University Orchestra will give a concert this Sunday evening at 8:30 in Alexander Hall, with Russell Ames Cook directing and Robert Miller '52 the soloist. Admission is free and no tickets are required.

The program will include Mozart's Overture Die Eptfuhrung aus dem Serail, K. 384; Beethoven's Concerto No. 2 in B flat major, Op. 19; the Brandenburg Concerto No. 3, in G major by Bach; Quiet City by Copland; and Beethoven's Overaure-Prometheus, Op. 43.

CLIO HALL

George C. Newlin, '52, baritone soloist with the Princeton Glee Club for four years, will give a recital this Friday night at 8:30 in Clio Hall auditorium. He will be accompanied by Miss Dolores Mittler, a pupil of Madame Gaby Casadesus.

The program, in four languages, will include arias from Handel's Messiah and his opera Amadigi, as well as from works by Gluck, Lully, Mendelssohn and Gilbert and Sullivan. A group of five arias from Mozart's operas, Le Nozze de Figaro and Don Giovanni, and songs by Faure, Wolf and Schubert will also be sung by Mr. Newlin. There is no admission charge.

McCARTER THEATRE

The Sleeping Beauty will be given as a matinee next Thursday, May 22, at 3:30 and again Friday, May 23, at 8 o'clock. More than 160 Princetonians, young and old, will be seen as members of the Junior Community Players or Audree Estey's hallet groups.

Mrs. Joseph Haight is directing the large cast in her original dramatization of the story. Principal roles are being taken by Herbert Robert McCullough, McAneny, Anne Miller, Georgine Hall, Emily Stuart, Henry Seigle, John Beehe, NEWS OF THE THEATRES Grace Morton, Stephen Young, Melissa Kay, Lynn McManus, Hester Delafield, Louise Rosendorf, Barbara Berry and Molly Wade.

The play is the final event in the Children's Entertainment Series sponsored by the borough elementary schools PTA. Tickets at the University Store and, next Thursday and Friday, at the box office.

THE GARDEN

The Battle at Apache Pass (Fri-Sat.), set in the post-Civil War era the southwestern territories, pitches settlers and a small army post against the Indians. Against a Technicolor background, the film tollows a good pace to become typical slam-bang western. With John Lund, Jeff Chandler, Beverly Tyler.

Encore (Mon.-Thurs.) is the third of a package deal involving Somerset Maugham stories, each of which the skilled British writer introduces himself. Like "Trio" and "Quartet," this one has variety, interest and topflight acting, "The Ant and the Grasshopper" is an ironic piece about a shiftless playboy who evens the score with his hardworking brother; "Winter Cruise" has a surprise twist in the love affair hetween a young French steward and a talkative middle-aged spinster; "Gigolo and Gigolette" records the ups and downs of the romance of two carnival performers, Well worth seeing,

FILM REVIVAL

A Star Is Born, featuring Janet Gaynor and Frederic March and first released in 1937, will be shown Tuesday night at 8 in the Nassau Street School auditorium, An Academy Award winner for the effectiveness of its color photography, the film spins a story of life in Hollywood motion picture studios and the problems that bar the path to stardom. Proceeds will benefit the Princeton Chapter of United World Federalists; tickets at the
